TOKIO TO HAVE FIRST SUBWAY IN ORIENT

Charter From the Government to Construct Thirty-Mile Underground System.

Tokio, (U. N. S.)—Plans for thirty miles of subway lines to be built in the capital of Japan are now under consideration here. Ever since the plans for the underground lines as a means of relieving the traffic congestion of Tokyo were suggested in 1918 there has been skepticism because of the fact that Tokyo is built on a land that was once part of the sea, or "made ground." The new engineering company, agents for the Tokyo Underground Railways company, Ltd., claims to have made tests and announces that there is no doubt of the ability of the land to stand the construction of the subway.

The company received its charter in 1918 from the government. It has recently voted to increase its capital stock from ¥10,000,000 ($400,000) to ¥20,000,000 ($800,000).

If the plans as submitted are carried out, Tokyo will have the first underground railway line ever built in the Orient. While the company's plans are still in the formative stage, it has gone as far as to establish headquarters in the Kaigo building, and arrange for calling into consultation prominent engineering men from France and America.

BILL FOR $840,000,000 DUE BY GOVERNMENT

However, Treasury Collects $650,000,000 in Income and Excess Profits Tax.

Washington, Dec. 15.—A bill for $840,000,000 against the government falls due today and at the same time the treasury is to collect $650,000,000 in income and excess profits taxes. About $7,000,000,000 in treasury certificates of indebtedness mature today and at the same time semiannual interest on the first liberty loan and the victory liberty loan, aggregating about $140,000,000 become payable. In order to provide for current expenses and to meet the remainder of the heavy obligations which mature in January, including $200,000,000 in certificates, Secretary Houston has offered two new issues of certificates aggregating about $50,000,000.

TRY TO FLOAT STEAMER Wedged in Havana Harbor. Paper Cargo Off.

Havana, Dec. 15.—Powerful tugs made a supreme attempt at high tide this morning to float the United Fruit Line steamer, San Pablo, which went aground at the entrance to Havana harbor last night. The steamer was kept by tugs during the night, but it was not until dawn today that lighters were taken alongside and the tugboats off a portion of her cargo of news print paper. The weather during the night was calm and the sea was moderate and there was no indication the San Pablo was in any immediate danger. The stern of the steamer was in deep water, but her prow was firmly wedged between the rocks.

Build 200 New Houses for Standard Oil Employees

Casper, Wyo., (U. N. S.)—A building program involving the erection of 200 new homes south of this city is announced by the Standard Oil company. Recently the state school board withdrew restrictions against the sale of public school land in a section south of Casper, and the Standard plans to plot the district, lay out streets, do grading, have curbing, cement sidewalks, sewers, water and a lighting system installed previous to the building of homes for their refinery workers. The company will sell the homes on an easy payment plan to its employees at cost.

M'MILLIN AFTER M'KELLAR TOGA

Well Defined Report in Capital Circles—M'Kellar Will Run Again.

G. O. P. HAVE SENATE HOPE

They Don't Mind Big Democratic Fight Over 1922 Nomination.

(BY JOHN D. ERWIN, Washington Correspondent The News.)

Washington, Dec. 15.—Benton McMillin's presence in Washington has revived the gossip among the republicans and democratic leaders here about the next senatorial race in Tennessee. Mr. McMillin, twenty years in congress and twice governor of the state, has come to Washington from his post as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Guatemala in connection with an investigation into Guatemalan affairs under a senate resolution.

In view of the fact that Mr. McMillin will retire from the public service with the present administration and must now be looking for something for the future, it has been suggested that he may offer for the United States senate. In fact, it is known here that Mr. McMillin has already confided to his friends his determination to become a candidate. It is his purpose to lay the foundation for his coming fight while he is in the United States, his friends declare. Before returning to his post he will go to Tennessee, where he will take steps to get up the necessary organization of statewide proportions to conduct a vigorous campaign for the position.

Cordell Hull, too, there probably will be numerous candidates for the democratic nomination. In addition to McMillin another distinguished democrat from the Fourth district is being discussed widely for the place. That man is Cordell Hull, recently defeated for congress from the Fourth district. While Mr. Hull has refused to discuss the matter, his friends have done so for him, and it may be said that he is seriously considering either running for the senate or to offer for his old seat in the house. Even the republicans admit that Mr. Hull is a one-timer in view of the big democratic majority in the district, and the place will be open to some good democrat next time. Hull may want to come back to the lower house or else he may enter the struggle for the senate.

Already Malcolm R. Patterson, former governor of Tennessee and member of congress from the Tenth district, has indicated that he is a candidate for senate. It has long been his aspiration to become the senator from Tennessee. The fact that he is a candidate is a difference in the democratic party have stood in the way. While he has long had a large following in the state his strength has not been sufficient in recent years to give him much hope of triumphing over his irreconcilable enemies. Whether he will prove an important factor in the forthcoming contest is a problem yet to be solved.

M'Kellar Will Run Again.

It is certain that Senator McKellar will be a candidate to succeed himself. In fact, the senator is leaving no stone unturned to get himself in shape for the race. Many democrats contend that McKellar hurt himself politically by going to Nashville and taking a hand in the legislative situation last summer when suffrage was being fought out. They point out that one of McKellar's pledges in his first race was that he would "keep his hands off state affairs" and keep away from the legislature.

An uncertain factor is whether the Shields-McKellar combination dissolves. Many politicians believe that Senator Shields has a candidate in mind with whom to trim McKellar when the time comes, although at present they are on the friendly terms. Whether Shields' support is as potent as it was five years ago is another question which McKellar's friends are asking themselves in view of his practical coalition with the republicans in the recent campaign which led to the overthrow of the democratic organization in the state.

It is possible that there will be at least one more candidate in this large field of aspirants. It may be that former Senator Luke Lea or Gen. Charles T. Carter, Jr. may be added to the list. It is not likely, however, that both will run, for they are so closely affiliated that the other will not. Each may always depend upon the support of the other in any political struggle that may arise.

While this forthcoming contest for the democratic nomination for the United States senate will be a battle royal, which promises to stir the state from Carter to Shelby, there are smouldering embers in the republican ash-barrel which threaten to blaze forth at the proper time and lick up all democratic aspirations for the senate. Republican leaders here speak candidly as to their intentions with respect to the senate. The fact that every republican faction in the state is to be represented by a candidate is not only amusing, but gratifying to them, for they say the greater the factional strife engendered among the democrats the easier it will be to defeat them at the general election. It is learned that the republican leaders here have their eyes on the Tennessee senate and that they are going to make a desperate effort to capture it. There is no secret about the republican organization, which will strive to take the honor for one of the favored ones of the party. The policy of the republicans will be to keep down McKellar at whatever cost and then if need be quarrel after the battle is won.

May Be Olive Branch.

The altitudinal promises of a seat in the United States senate may be employed by republican leaders to ally factional strife in their ranks in Tennessee and avert a calamity which is liable to result from the clamor for the leaves and flares. If there are any of the big offices to be awarded to Tennesseans for the conspicuous feat of having broken the solid south, they will necessarily be few and far between and not sufficient to meet the demands of the faithful. Whatever may be the result with respect to the patronage apportionment there will be disappointments and heartaches. It will be the part of wisdom, therefore, to get together all the offerings available to appease the thirst of the mighty ones and cause the dove of peace to flutter over the republican forces in Tennessee.

It is understood that the senate will likely be contested for by a very limited number of republicans, to the end that the party nominee may go into the general election with harmonious and enthusiastic backing of his party. By the time the senatorial election rolls around Gov. Alf Taylor will have built up a strong organization throughout the state. This will be reinforced by separate organizations of the five republican congressmen. If they can keep peace in the family and avoid the breakers that have stranded the democrats there is no telling what the result will be. Leaders of the republican party here, who are familiar with the situation in Tennessee, discuss freely the different possibilities among the republicans of that state for United States senator and a position in the cabinet. The name of Newell Sanders is probably more frequently mentioned for both places than any other man. C. H. Hixson of Chattanooga, who was active in the recent campaign, is being pushed by his friends of appointment as a cabinet member, as is James A. Fowler of Knoxville, formerly assistant attorney-general under Taft. T. F. Peck, former commissioner of agriculture under Gov. H. W. Hooper, is spoken of for commissioner of agriculture under Harding. Hooper's name has often been mentioned in connection with the senate. His adherents claim that he could make a creditable showing in the contest as any other republican, and if elected that his marked ability would at once place him in a high plane in the senate, where he would be a credit to his party.

CLEVELAND JUSTICE TRIED

Cleveland, O., Dec. 15.—Nine jurors had been tentatively selected when court adjourned late yesterday in the trial of William H. McGannon, chief justice of the municipal court, charged with the second-degree murder of Harold C. Kacy, garage owner. Twenty talemen had been examined, eleven being excused for cause.

When the trial started this morning it was learned that private detectives had been secretly at work on the murder mystery for a month. Friends of McGannon declared that they had been brought here from New York to clear up evidence showing in the contest as any other republican, and if elected that his marked ability would at once place him in a high plane in the senate, where he would be a credit to his party.

According to McGannon's counsel, eight eyewitnesses have been found by the private detectives who will testify McGannon was not present at the scene of the shooting. As principal witness during the trial of John W. Joyce, who was acquitted of Kacy's murder, McGannon denied he was present. Other witnesses, however, testified he was the "third man" at the scene.

Accusations by County Prosecutor Roland Baekin that witnesses for the state had been tampered with were met by counsel for the defense with an offer of $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the guilty persons.
